

Library Referendum Is Up To Voters

By PHIL WECK
Courier-Times Staff Writer
(This is the last of four articles)

At the top of the voting machine on Nov. 8, residents of Bristol Township will find a narrow panel reading like this:

"Shall the township of Bristol maintain or aid in the maintenance of the established free public non-sectarian library serving the township and for that purpose enact, collect and disburse to the aforementioned library an annual tax at the rate of one mill on the dollar on all tangible property within the township of Bristol, Pennsylvania?"

This is the library referendum.
With the necessary changes, it will appear on the ballots in Middletown and Falls Townships and Tullytown Borough, and in Langhorne Borough it also will be changed to make the tax rate one-half mill.

Next to it, of course, will be the levers which the voter can pull to vote either yes or no.

If enough of them approve the referendum, the three largest public libraries in Lower Bucks plan to use the $154,000 it will provide to consolidate in a federated library system which will enable them to increase the number of books available to their members, the amount of help they have and the hours they will be open, thus adding immeasurably to their value and service to the community.

Candidates Debates To End Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy air their differences over foreign affairs tonight in an hour-long windup of their historic series of "Great Debates."

Four television and radio networks will carry the encounter, which starts at 10 p.m. EDT, into the homes of millions.

Physically, the two presidential candidates will be closer together than in their three previous debates but the six feet separating stage could just as well be a mile concerning their views on the face-to-face meetings.

Kennedy steadfastly insisted that a fifth debate be staged nearer the election Nov. 8 while Nixon stuck by his decision that tonight's fourth encounter would be the last.

A meeting between TV-radio network executives and representatives of the candidates Thursday limited tonight's debate to one hour, rejecting a Nixon proposal

Good Evening!

Pour in the anti-freeze. In the car that is.

It's BITTER in the mornings and top coat weather at night. Here comes winter. Well, it's good football weather anyway.

Otherwise things are normal since my last visit here. Cuba and Khrushchev are still kicking up a fuss and Nixon and Kennedy are still debating.

Tonight's the fourth meeting and probably the last. You're missing history and a pretty good show if you don't watch — even if your mind is made up.

Of course both candidates will be making in person appearances in Lower Bucks in the next seven days. Nixon will be in the Levittown Shopping Center tomorrow at about 3:30 p.m. Kennedy will be here the following Saturday.

Here's an opportunity to see the vice president in the flesh and hear what he has to say. You can bring the kids. (Nixon is against cursing.)

And tomorrow night is also the big, annual Chamber of Commerce dinner.

This is one affair that tops itself every year and is one of the outstanding social events of the season.

The grandmother of the Mario Lanza children says she needs $500 per month just to feed the four.

And we fight just to make the kids eat.

After you've heard two eyewitness accounts of an auto accident, you begin to wonder about history.

The trouble with trouble is that it usually starts out like fun.

Be careful.

Fire Guts Gas Station Near Pennel

Firemen from the Pennel Fire Company fought this blaze which broke out last night at a Gulf station for 45 minutes before bringing it under control. This auto was destroyed but three men escaped injury in an explosion and fire, the cause of which was not determined. The station is located in Middletown Township on Route 1 a mile outside Pennel borough. (Courier-Times Photo)

4 Levittown Persons Hurt In Crash

Four persons were injured in a two-car collision on Route 1 at the Old Lincoln Highway in Trevo shortly after midnight.

Injured were Mrs. Albert Fraum, 57, of 6 Honeylocust Road, Levittown, with deep lacerations of the head, possible cerebral contusions and lacerations of the knee; her husband, Albert, 62, lacerations of the leg and right eye; William Raymond, 31, 3 Ivyrock Road, Levittown, abrasions of the right wrist and lacerations of the forehead; and Allen Dunn Sr., 24, 3 Ivyrock Road, Levittown, abrasions of the right wrist and lacerations of the forehead.

Mrs. Fraum was admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital. The others were treated and released.

The accident occurred when the cars operated by Raymond and Dunn attempted to turn off Route 1 onto Old Lincoln Highway. The Fraums were passengers in the car driven by Raymond.

Stands Ready For Grid Game

"The Pennsbury High School football grandstands will definitely be finished in time for the game with Neshaminy High School tomorrow afternoon," William Ingraham, assistant superintendent of Pennsbury Schools, said this morning.

Ingraham said that "there is absolutely no question at all" whether or not the stands would be finished in time for the game. He added that Harry W. Beitel, Lower Makefield Township building inspector, would issue an occupancy permit for the stands this afternoon.

Grand Brings $42,150 Bristol Theater Sold At Auction

Before a crowd of 65 persons chilled by the sudden cold snap, a Philadelphia waste products dealer yesterday made the high bids for Bristol's historic Grand Theater, the sound and projection equipment in it and a two and one-half-acre parcel of property behind it.

The bidder, Herman Kasloff, 863 N. 4th St., Philadelphia, would not say what he intends to do with the building. He may rehabilitate and resell it, or possibly lease it to someone interested in a movie there, he said.

Kasloff bid a total of $42,150 for the building, which includes seven offices on the second floor, the equipment and the land.

He originally was outbid, for the theater only by Benny Cassalia, Philadelphia contractor and owner of the Del-Val Motel. Cassalia, however, withdrew this bid when he learned that it did not include the extra parcel of land, and the theater went to Kasloff for $35,000.

The particular piece of property, which runs back from Anthony Nichols bypass, is included in the plans for Bristol's projected park and marina and may be subject to condemnation proceedings later, borough officials said. It is mostly swamp and will have to

Kennedy Gains In Straw Poll

The Democrats were heard from today.

On the eve of the visit of the Republican Presidential candidate, Vice - President Nixon, Democratic votes in the Courier - Times straw ballot poured in and brought Sen. Robert F. Kennedy up almost into a tie in the totals.

Yesterday's vote was 92 for Kennedy and 76 for Nixon, making the totals to date, Nixon 199, Kennedy 197.

A ballot for the straw vote appears herewith. Mark it, paste it on the back of a postcard and mail it to the Courier - Times, Route 13, Levittown, to help compile a good indication of how Lower Bucks will vote in the presidential race Nov. 8.

Festivities Will Precede 3:30 Speech

Vice - President Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for President, will be in Lower Bucks County tomorrow for the first visit of a presidential candidate to this area in history.

Nixon will arrive between 3:30 and 4 p.m. to deliver a 28-minute speech in the Levittown Shopping Center. A crowd of up to 25,000 is expected by Republican leaders to make his visit a festive, gala day.

Festivities in the shopping center will begin at 2:15 p.m. with the Tri-County band playing and Mickey Shaughnessy night-club, movie and television comedian entertaining the crowd that is expected to gather.

With Nixon will be U.S. Senator Hugh Scott, Congressman Willard S. Curtin; Frederick E. Ziegler, Republican chairman in Bucks County, and three candidates for state office, Charles C. Smith, running for treasurer; Robert F. Kent, for auditor-general, and Judge Blair Gunther, candidate for the state superior court.

Ziegler will preside at the ceremonies in the shopping center and Congressman Curtin, himself a candidate for re-election, will introduce the Vice-President.

Also on hand will be what William J. Veitch, register of wills and assistant GOP chairman in the county, calls the biggest elephant in captivity, a beast that was seen in the movie "Around the World in 80 Days." The elephant was located after a lengthy search by Frank Chester, elephant chairman of the Bristol Township Republican club.

A reception committee will be awaiting the Vice-President at the shopping center consisting of Veitch and the four candidates for the state legislature from Bucks County; Alan D. Williams and Margarette Kooker, incumbent Assemblymen; State Senator Marvin Keller and John Thomas, candidate for the assembly from Lower Bucks.

Crowd Expected

Joseph W. Halliwell, Sr., county chairman of the Dick Nixon Club, said today that officials in every precinct are rallying their supporters to attend the speech.

Vincent Lombardi, chairman of the Bristol Township Republican club, said an attendance of 25,000 could be expected, if the weather is good.

They will throng into the southeastern section of the shopping center, opposite the Courier-Times building, where a 40-foot platform will be erected for the Vice-President and 100 local dignitaries.

They will line the route he is expected to travel, from the eastern terminus of the Pennsylvania

Dance To Celebrate Arrival Of Nixon

A dance to celebrate Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon's visit at the Levittown Shop-A-Rama tomorrow will be held tonight by the Bristol Township GOP organization.

James H. Cochran, dance committee chairman, said the dance will begin at 8:30 at the Newportville firehouse. He said an orchestra and refreshments will be provided.

Cochran said all active Republican workers are invited to attend the dance.

Centuries Old

Those three are the centuries-old, steeped-in-tradition Langhorne - Middletown and Fallsington libraries and the quite new Regional Library situated in Levittown at the intersection of Levittown and Mill Creek Parkways.

Each of them will be a separate, autonomous, self-governed library with the same number of books available in each and eventually the same hours of operation—at least 65 a week, they hope.

All of them are public libraries now—that is, they receive money from the municipalities to serve and charge no fee to card holders. The idea for a federated library sprang somewhat simultaneously from all three library boards, headed by W. H. Ticehurst in Langhorne-Middletown, Myron C. Lubash in Fallsington and Donald Bolles of Regional.

Petitions Circulated

With the help of more than 100 volunteers they circulated petitions that put the referendum on the ballots in these five municipalities.

They circulated a petition in Langhorne Manor borough, too. However, it ran into an inexplicable delay there and as a result the library referendum will not be on the ballot in Langhorne Manor.

It also was somewhat tangled up in Langhorne. There, the borough solicitor, Frederick A. Bebbington, prominent and respected Yardley attorney, interpreted the law to the extent that the borough council, while it must approve such a referendum, could regulate the amount of millage it provides.

Reduced Millage

Consequently, after the petitions had gone to the county board of elections, Langhorne and Langhorne Manor, too, called them back. Langhorne reduced the millage by one-half and reforwarded the petition. The Manor did the same but somehow was so delayed in sending the petition back that the Sept. 30 deadline for referendums was missed.

This means, according to the present plans of the projected federated library, that residents of Langhorne Manor may not be card holders in that library unless the borough makes separate contractual arrangements or the individual pays a fee.

Passed Petition

Lubash, Ticehurst and Bolles, who had perfected the planned federated library only after lengthy and delicate conferences, were astounded when the library referendum ran into vociferous objections from several sources.

The Bristol Township Commissioners, for example, indicated at their last meeting, Wednesday night,

Plans For Route 1 Called 'Nightmare'

"An engineering nightmare" was the term applied yesterday afternoon to the State Highway Department's proposed "limited access highway" which it plans to build on Route 1 from City Line to Pennel.

The description was offered by Carl Polcan of the Americana Motel and by Cliff Skubus of Cliff's Drive - In. Polcan, who is chairman of the Legal Committee of the Route One Association, and Skubus, general chairman of the association, addressed the Legal Committee of the association and representatives of the State Highway Department in a special meeting at the Penn Motel on Route 1, Trevo.

No Exit

The association, which is opposing plans to erect a barricade between the main six - lane proposed highway and its service roads, said that a study of the plans disclosed there will be no exit into the service roads between the Philadelphia County line and Street Road.

The association said that this would unquestionably "strangle our business so that we would be unable to operate."

Last night the association met with the Bensalem Township Board of Supervisors in an effort to get the backing of every possible official, businessman, service organizations and area citizens.

Speaking in behalf of the Association was Democratic State Assemblyman James J. A. Gallagher, who offered to serve on

The first frost of the season was experienced by many residents of Lower Bucks County this morning even though official temperatures did not record the milestone.

The weatherman's weekend forecast included some of the best football weather predicted so far this season.

The weather today and tomorrow will remain sunny and cool with high temperatures today around 50 degrees, tomorrow in the upper 50's. Tonight's low temperature is expected to be about 32.

Chamber Will Install Heads

The Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce will install its new officers at a dinner dance tomorrow night in the Warrington Country Club.

Kenny Delmar, the Senator Claghorn of radio and TV fame, will be guest speaker and entertainer.

The dinner dance is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. with a social hour preceding it at 6.

New officers of the chamber will be Harcker C. Idell, president; Roland B. Sykes, first vice-president; John Catzin, second vice-president, and A. Marilyn Moyer, treasurer. Idell, however, is in Bermuda on a short cruise and will miss the dance.

He replaces outgoing president Maynard J. Rich.

Carole, Lover Tense; Await Jury Verdict

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Did you sleep?" asked Dr. R. Bernard Finch.

"Uh-uh," Carole Tregoff answered negatively.

The brief exchange late Thursday summed up the tensions the illicit lovers must feel as they await the murder retrial jury to decide their fate.

The 11 women and 1 man making up the jury returned to their third day of deliberations today, attempting to wade through testimony given by 99 witnesses in 17 weeks of trial.

The state has asked that Finch, 43, and Carole, 23, be found guilty of first degree murder in the death of the surgeons' wife, Barbara, 33.

The defense demanded they be freed, claiming the July 18, 1959, gunshot death was accidental.

While the jurors deliberated, Finch appeared outwardly calm as he had in the first trial. Carole, however, sought extra work in county jail as a dishwasher so she "wouldn't have time lagging on her hands."

The couple had to wait eight suspenseful days at the end of their first trial before the jury announced on March 12 it was hopelessly deadlocked.

A brief flurry of excitement came late Thursday when Superior Judge Leroy Dawson summoned the jurors and the defendants back to the courtroom.

"No verdict," Carole was assured by her attorney, Don Bringold, as she entered the courtroom.

"I know," she smiled tremulously. "But what's it all about?"

The assemblage was called so Dawson could explain to the jurors the legal meaning of "excusable homicide," a thing he had failed to do on Wednesday when the case was given to the jury.

"It was merely an oversight on my part," said Dawson. He spent only 90 seconds to define the term and then sent the jurors back to their deliberations, which were recessed at 4:30 p.m. for the day.

be filled before it can be of any use.

Dr. Gabriel Elias, owner of Lacy Gardens, Warminster Township rental development, was another unsuccessful bidder for the theater, dropping out when the bid reached $32,500.

Unsuccessful Bid

Neither Cassalia nor Dr. Elias would reveal why they wanted the theater.

The bids began at $15,000 and with Cassalia, Kasloff and Dr. Elias competing soon reached $35,000. Louis Traiman, Philadelphia auctioneer, said that the theater would cost between $400,000 and $500,000 to build today.

Mignoni Drops Out

In the bidding for the extra piece of land, Frank Mignoni, Bristol realtor, competed. However, he dropped out at $5,800. Kasloff bought it for $5,900.

For $250, he also purchased the equipment, outbidding George Lubin of Boardwalk Films, Atlantic City, N.J.

Kasloff is listed in the Philadelphia telephone directory as a dealer in waste cotton and wool products. According to Traiman, the auctioneer, he also purchases various properties, rehabilitates them and resells them.

May Resell

Kasloff said today that under no circumstances would he use the theater for his waste-product business. He may convert and resell it, lease it, or if he gets an offer from a movie-house operator, run it under separate management, he said.

He revealed that he had been a personal friend of one of the original owners, the late William Rumpf, Sr., of Langhorne.

The entire transaction is subject to the approval of the two banks that are trustees for the estates of the owners, Rumpf and Nellie Bodeck.

Nov. 8 Ballot Will Decide Library Referendum Issue

that they had passed the petition on because under the law they had to, but they were not in favor of it.

The $154,000 was too much money, they indicated, and too much of it would go for salaries.

Doctor Charles Muschell, head of the Pennsbury school system and chairman of a committee of community, business and governmental leaders backing the referendum, doesn't agree with either of these points.

$1.28 Per Annum

That $154,000, Muschell and his committee members point out, will provide the proposed federated library with $1.28 per annum for each person in the area it will serve.

According to the American Library Association, an adequate library should spend $2.00 per capita. Few of them do although most of them have more than the $1.28 the referendum would provide in Lower Bucks.

Here are per capita figures for libraries in a few cities:

Per Capita Figures

Trenton, N. J., $2.26; Newark, N. J., $3.90; Cleveland, $3.65; Boston, $4.95; Philadelphia, $1.78; Bethlehem, $1.39; Wilkes-Barre, which is a private library, $1.33; Lansdown, $1.24.

Pennsylvania, however, is only 32nd among the 50 states in the quality of its libraries. Many of them fall below the $1.00 per capita standard or the $1.28 expected in the referendum. They include Scranton, with only $0.33 per capita; Norristown, .92; Hazleton, .79; Allentown, $1.14; Norristown's library is private; so are those in Carbondale, $0.45 per capita, and Coatesville, $0.23.

The contention that too much of the proposed budget will go for salaries is another that Muschell and his committee members cannot understand.

Nineteen Employees

They plan to have 19 paid employees in the system for a total salary expenditure of $75,300, or an average of $3,970 per employee. Nobody's going to get rich on that, they point out.

Furthermore, the director of the whole system will be either a doctor or a master of library science with a minimum of five years of college education.

The budget of the $154,000 will go like this: Salaries, $75,300; purchase of books, $38,700; capital expenditures, such as improvements and renting or building new space, $20,200, and maintenance and operating expenses, $19,800.

Law Limits Tax

The objectors complain that the library tax will rise. It can't, Doctor Muschell points out. Under Pennsylvania law, it's limited to a maximum of two mills, and Bolles has this to say on the subject:

"We pledge not to increase the millage. We feel that the natural growth of the rates in this area will keep pace with the natural growth of the service and we will be able to service a fine library system at one mill."

On practical grounds, Doctor Muschell and his committee have answers for every question that has been raised.

They don't, however, have an answer to the practical politicians who point out that a tax referendum automatically draws 30 per cent "no" votes, no matter what it's for.

Middletown Township has complicated that "no" vote by placing two additional referendums on the ballot, one for parks and recreation and one for fire service both for two mills. Thus, Middle town voters will be asked to increase their own taxes by a total of five mills.

What happens if the library referendum is defeated in Middletown but successful elsewhere? The federated library budget will be shrunken to $29,500 a one-mill tax would bring from that

Demos Slate Rally, Parade

James A. Michener, noted author and Pulitzer Prize winner, will address a major rally of the current political campaign, it was announced from the local headquarters of Citizens for Kennedy.

Michener will be the principal speaker at the rally tonight at 8:45 o'clock at the Levittown Shopping Center, on the mall near the Food Fair Store.

Other speakers will include Harry Boyer, co-president of the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, who was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention; Dr. John Flood, Burgess of New Hope, also a delegate to the National Convention; and Frank Flatch, local labor leader and president of the AFL-CIO Council of Bucks County.

The rally will be preceded by a gigantic motor parade through various sections of Lower Bucks County.

Participating in the motorcade will be independent citizens groups from Falls Twp., Bristol Twp., Middletown, Tullytown, Morrisville and Bristol.

One motorcade will convene in the Country Club Shopping Center at 6:30 p.m., another at the Oxford Valley School in Fairless Hills at 6:30 p.m. and a third at the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School at 7:30 p.m. The groups will meet at the Regional Library at 8 p.m. and proceed from there to the Levittown Shopping Center.

township. Unless the commissioners were willing to contract for an equivalent amount, the budget would be rearranged, Muschell says.

Bolles feels that if two of the three townships reject the referendum, they will not have enough revenue to justify the federated library and each of the three will try to struggle on alone. The revenue they expect from the five municipalities divides up like this:

Bristol Township, which would support Regional and its Croydon branch, $54,000; Falls Township, with many card holders in both Regional and Fallsington, $61,000; Middletown, $29,500 for both Regional and Langhorne - Middletown; Langhorne, $1,000, and Tullytown, $5,000.

The 100 volunteers who circulated petitions, and many more, will be out working for the referendum on election day. They will be armed with these facts and with one quotation from Dr. Muschell which is perhaps a fitting end to this series.

Says Dr. Muschell: "Three centers for cultural advantages of a community are the churches, the schools and the library. These more than any other determine what the people in a community consider important in their lives and the welfare of their children and convey their aspirations, their hopes and their outlook."

"We hold that we are very proud of our churches; we're very proud of our schools and it's my sincere hope that this growing area will become as proud of its cultural facilities, particularly its libraries."

Turnpike up Route 13 to the shopping center. In addition, they will attend rallies throughout the county from the evening before until an hour or so of his estimated arrival time.

Nixon will reach Levittown from Norristown, where he is to deliver an earlier speech Saturday. After his talk he will return to the turnpike in a motorcade, drive to the Route 1 exit, down that to Philadelphia's Northeast Airport, where he will leave for Allentown by plane.

A gigantic Allentown rally is planned for that same evening.

Eighty Phones

Lombardi revealed today that the Bristol Township club has sent 60,000 invitations to attend the gathering and has arranged for 80 telephones to be set up at the press table at that end of the shopping center.

There will be seats for 100 correspondents close to the platform, 70 of whom are traveling with the vice-president's party. The other 30 will be from newspapers, radio and television stations of the area.

Pat Shields, organizing director for the Republicans of Middletown Township, said today that he is trying to round up 500 attractive girls, the Nixonettes, to be on hand in costume. He also has arranged for 5,000 balloons which will be released to rise into the air when the vice-president arrives.

He has arranged a meeting in the Middletown campaign headquarters, Country Club Shopping Center, for tonight to organize a motorcade from Middletown.

Shields also said that the Tri-County band of Feasterville will be there.

The Dick Nixon Club of Bucks County will lead three motorcades to the shopping center, one from the upper end of the county, one from the Doylestown section and one from Lower Bucks.

Prior to the vice-president's arrival, the Nixon club will hold a tea at the home of Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and co-chairman of the club, in Edgely.

Opposite Mall

The Vice-President's motorcade will enter the shopping center at the southern end and park opposite the mall. From there he will walk along the mall, which will be divided by ropes, to the platform.

Stores and shops along the mall and facing the platform will remain open during the speech. Secret Service headquarters in Philadelphia revealed today. However, parking in the entire southeastern section of the shopping center will be severely restricted, both for security reasons and to accommodate the crowd which is expected.

Middletown Twp. Police Rescue Cat From Washer

Middletown Township Ptl. Roger Thorson labored valiantly for 15 minutes yesterday, summoned reinforcements and labored 15 minutes longer and finally produced from a clothes-loaded washing machine a cat.

The policeman's report didn't say how or why the cat got into the washing machine. It said only that the animal was the pet of Mrs. Kazmier Michalowski, 32 Umber Road, Upper Orchard, Levittown, from whose washer the officer rescued it.

The cat was cleaned but unhurt by the experience.

the association's Executive Committee.

Leo Bauso, of Butch's Auction, Trevoze, said that every citizen as well as the businessmen in Bensalem Township and neighboring townships and boroughs would be affected by the highway department plans.

Representatives from as far away as Route 611 in Warrington also said they plan to organize against a similar proposed highway for that area.

The Route One Association also announced that it is opening permanent headquarters in a trailer at Cliff's Drive-In Hamburgers on Route 1 above City Line.

The association said representatives would be on duty more than 18 hours each day to answer telephone and personal inquiries.

Roy K. Green, chairman of the Bensalem Township supervisors, today said that the supervisors would back the Route One Association in their fight against the proposed "limited" access highway.

After meeting with highway officials yesterday, Green said that it appeared that businesses located along the proposed route in the township might have to relocate once the highway was completed.

Green estimated that the widening of the highway between the township line at Poquessing Creek and the Pennsylvania Turnpike would result in a loss in tax revenue of $62,000 to $68,000.

Falls Girl Missing, May Be In Washington

A Falls Township girl reported missing Tuesday night may be in Washington, D.C., the Courier-Times learned today.

Miss Margaret Hann, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hann, 146 Lower Morrisville Road, failed to return home from work Tuesday night.

The Pennsbury High School graduate's car was found at the Trenton railroad station, Mrs. Hann said. Wednesday, the family received a letter from the natural white-blond blue-eyed girl, written on stationery from a Baltimore, Md., hotel and postmarked Washington, D.C.

The five foot, one inch, 110-pound girl may have changed her hair style to a "bun," her mother stated.

Falls Township police are investigating the case.

explosion occurred.

This resulted in a fire which took firemen from Pennell 45 minutes to control and most of Pfeffer's garage was gutted. Fortunately, the three men escaped injury. Cause of the explosion is still not known.

Flames broke through the roof, destroyed two autos and caused heavy damage to spare parts located in Pfeffer's shop.

As of this morning Fire Chief George Shaffer had not been able to estimate the total extent of the damage.

This morning at 8:45, Pfeffer went to his service station to determine the extent of his losses.

Just as he was about to make a left turn off Route 1 into his station, he was struck in the rear by another auto.

Pfeffer was taken to the Lower Bucks County Hospital where he was treated for abrasions of the left leg and released. Damage to his car was estimated at $600.

Driver Charged

The driver of the other car, Gene Krupa, 19, of 155 Magnolia Drive, Levittown, was charged with reckless driving by Middletown policeman Harold Briggs.

Krupa was treated for bruises at the hospital and released.

Lady Luck was kind to Pfeffer at least in one respect. He escaped the fire and auto accident relatively unscathed.

Cars Collide In Falls, Woman Slightly Hurt

A Levittown resident suffered minor bruises this morning when two cars collided at the intersection of Hood and South Olds Boulevards in Falls Township.

Falls Township police said Mrs. Joan W. Douglas, 31, 38 Great Oak Road, Golden Ridge, Levittown, failed to stop for a red traffic signal and struck a car driven by Louis W. Bogof, 51, 84 Hollow Road, Highland Park, Levittown.

Mrs. Douglas bruised her right knee and Bogof complained of pain in his left leg, but neither was hospitalized, investigators stated. Mrs. Douglas' daughter, Kendall Ann, 21 months, riding with her mother, was not hurt.

Mrs. Douglas received a summons for going through a red light, police reported.

L. Makefield Tax Study Due In Nov.

The Lower Makefield Development Committee is expected to complete its study of the township's economic base within a month, township manager William Struve revealed yesterday.

The committee, created May 2 by the Board of Supervisors, has been studying the question of how to broaden the township's tax base. Lower Makefield currently has two small businesses which are its only commercial tax ratables. The brunt of the tax load is, therefore, borne by the individual home-owner, Struve noted.

Working in conjunction with the township's Planning Commission which is revising Lower Makefield's master plan, the group's report will suggest how and where added businesses and industries could be attracted into the area.

The committee was created after the tax rates for this year revealed that support of schools and government in Lower Makefield was getting to be a financial burden for many residents. The group has visited commercial and industrial sites in other municipalities with similar problems.

Chairman of the committee is Ross Bennington. Members are T. Sidney Cadwallader, 2d, Andrew H. Keefe, H. Lee Kustaborder and Donald K. White. White is also a member of the planning commission.

Seek Better Readers In Boehm Program

A program designed to develop continuous improvement in reading for all students in Charles H. Boehm High School, Lower Makefield, has been integrated in the curriculum of the school, according to an announcement by school authorities.

In the seventh and eighth grades two periods each week are used for improving and increasing the reading efficiency of students. The students work with a basal reader, use additional reading materials, and work on phonetic and structural skills needed for good reading habits.

The ninth and tenth grade reading program has been designed so that reading is taught by teachers from a variety of subject areas to integrate the improvement of reading skills into all subject areas.

Research Lab

The science research laboratory is used in ninth grade reading classes as an aid in self-improvement. In the laboratory, each student reads at his own level of ability, takes comprehension and skill tests based on his readings, and as he improves at his own rate, is moved to the next reading level where he continues the process.

The ninth grade reading program also includes the use of other reading instructional materials, developmental skills in reading newspapers and the improvement of listening skills.

Further Use

The tenth grade works from a basic reading improvement text which aims at improving efficiency in reading for further use in academic subjects or in employment. Other materials, such as the controlled reader for improving rate of reading, a variety of books and magazines, and various audio-visual aids are used as a part of specially integrated units in the program.

Guests from various professions and industries are invited to address students on the relationship of reading to their particular field. The Boehm reading program is planned for the improvement of all students. The five per cent of the student body which needs remedial work is given special attention by Mrs. Helen Mottershead, coordinator of the developmental reading program for the school.
